A MODERN ROMEO By Mabel H. Thompson

WHAT is so rare as a day in June?" quoth Julia H- to herself, ex-stenographer and present

For a moment she rested on her hos and gazed around her at the cloudless summer sky, the crows circling overhead, the vast fields of corn and other gar-den stuff including potatoes (her own particular job), and the other farmer-comparing in her mind this field and others over 3000 miles away. It did not seem possible that such a thing as war could exist in a world like this.

Still leaning on her hoe she thought of,
our hoys who went from scenes like this to fields with far different crops. Then her thoughts flew to the one boy who had said good-by a few weeks before as he went to don the khaki uniform of Uncle Sam. Her hand crept into her tents of her bloomer pocket, but just then the dinner bell interrupted her reverie.

During the dinner and the rest of the day Julia was somewhat preoccupied and made little attempt to join her friends in their merry fun and nonsense. After the day's work was done and every-body had gathered on the big plazza to watch the sunset she slipped away and wandered slowly through the orchard enjoying the lovely summer evening. Not realizing where she was going, she suddenly stopped a few feet from their Shakesperean scarecrow.

It seemed very lifelike in the fading twillight, and, half smiling, she murmured softly as she statted on:

"O Romeo. Romeo! wherefore art thou, Romeo?"

"I take thee at thy word. Call me but love," answered a deep, tender voice, and as she turned in amazement the scarecrow doffed its feathered hat and disclosed the laughing features of Ronald B——as he made a low how.

and fine designs go to make up the lovely pins of sterling silver and brilliant rhinestones that are such excellent copies of the plati-num and diamond pins. $1 to $5. Delightful gifts, these!

Women Welcome Winter Because He Brings FURS

There is no denying their becomingness, and if Winter didn't appear loaded down and bundled up with lovely furs it wouldn't be worth his coming.

A walk through the Fur Store today brought us upon some beautiful brown Alaskan Wolf Scarfs. They are the animal scarf with head and tail and are prettily lined. $52.50.

Many other beautiful sets, scarfs and muffs at moderate prices. (Market)

Women's Double Silk Gloves, $1.25

A good many women wear them all Winter, as they find them very warm. These are two-clasp gloves in black, gray and white, with embroidered backs.

Chamois-lisle gloves, lined throughout with silk, are also snug. In black and khaki, with embroidered backs, these are also $1.25 a pair.

Silk Stockings

Black, navy blue, bronze and white stockings for women are silk from top to toe, with the soles and heels re-enforced with lisle on the inside. $2.15 a pair. (Central)

Scores and scores of coats, hundreds, in fact, have been piling in during the last week or so, and lining themselves up for the Winter weather that is going to swoop down soon. They are all good coats, too, of varying degrees of fineness, but all snug and warm and affording ample protection against sharp winds and swirling snow.

A Full-Lined Coat at $15

is something to be proud of. It is of heavy cheviot coating in navy blue or black, with a good black lining, an inlaid plush cellar, deep pockets and a belt all around. It is sketched. Navy Cheviot at $18.75

Another warm coat with inset pockets of goodly depth has a soft collar of gray fur cloth. (Sketched.)

Three Styles at $20 One, a navy or Black cheviot, is sketched. It has roomy one, a navy or black cheviot, is sketched. It has roomy pockets, trimmed with buttons, a plush collar and a lining that extends to the waist. The other two are equally good coats; the first is of green, navy or brown burella in a heavy weight, half lined, with a band of fur cloth on the collar. The other is of navy or brown boucle, lined throughout and finished with a plush collar and cuffs.

Five Styles at $25 They are of velour in plain dark colorings or in mixed shades of gray and brown, and there is one model in silvertip cloth. Some have collars of kit coney fur, some of fur cloth and most of the coats are half lined with silk. Other Winter coats of finer grades are priced up to $145.

(Market)

Ho For Hallowe'en! All the last-minute party needs can be filled in the Down Stairs Store. Cut-outs of cats, witches, etc., candle and electric light shades, table covers, additional napkins, place cards and decora-tions are very reasonably priced.

Warm Sweaters for Romping Youngsters

Youngsters who play in the fresh air must have something warm, yet not too heavy to hamper their movements. A sweater is just the thing.

One cozy little brushed-wool sweater in tan, green or rose is slip-over style with a little collar. 2 to 6 year sizes at $3.50. Another (that much resembles a hand-knit sweater) comes in the same colors and has a belt.

For Older Sister

In the same sizes at $4.

There is a good-looking sweater (also resembling a hand-knit one) in Copenhagen blue, khaki, rose, tan and green. It is a slip-over style, in 8, 10 and 12 year sizes. $6.50.

Many Women Like Satin Frocks Best of All

They like them for their gentle grace and for their great adapta-bility. Then, too, they are won-derfully durable dresses and will stand admirably a great amount of wear.

Prices begin as low as $16.50 for pretty frocks of navy, taupe or brown satin with pretty overskirts, wide girdles and square necks or a touch of Georgette crepe about the vestee. At $19.75 there are three be-coming frocks in black and navy one boasting a bit of bead embroidery. In navy blue—best liked of all—there is a frock with the new collarless neck and heavy em-broidery on the bodice. Another —Of the Newest Suits

There is much that is interesting to see in the new suits. The longer, tighter skirts, longer coats, lovely materials and trimmings all make them charming.

Practical suits of wool poplin in brown, green and navy have collars of self-material or velvet and pretty linings. They are all belted and have their share of tucks, pleats and buttons to make them

A little group of individual models of wool poplin, velous and broadcloth are in navy, brown and green. Many are trimmed with fur—some with generous collars and cuffs and touches on the bottom of the coat. $32.50 to $55.

Straight Chemises | Four Corset Models | like the one that is sketched have detachable collars. $3.50.

So many women have been asking for them lately that they will be glad to know of these. Straight chemises in quite a number of styles are $1.35 to $2. At $1.35 there is a cord-band-top style, while all the rest are trimmed with fine embroidery or pretty lace.

Sensible New Frocks for Schoolgirls

At $5, dresses of brown or blue gingham for girls of 8 years to 14 are short-waisted and have box-pleated skirts. The belt is embroidered by hand. The collars and pocketflaps are of maize color.

The attractive dress with the jacket effect that is sketched is for girls of 10 years to 16. The jacket is of blue, brown or green gingham and the skirt is of plaid. $5.50.

And serge-the ever-popular and practical material for school frocks-finds itself in neat dresses for girls of 8 years to 14. They are dark blue and have hand-embroidery on the collars and square necks. The skirts are fully pleated. $7.50. (Central)

No Lack of Variety in Skirts of Extra Sizes

Women who need skirts with extra waistbands and more uliness around the hips will have a wide choice from good-oking, serviceable skirts.

There are sturdy serges, made in good styles, at $4.75, $6.75, $8.75, $10, $10.50 and $10.75. Also wool poplin and gabardine around $10. These are in waistbands from 31 to 40 and are navy blue and black. An unuuselly attractive wool poplin skirt is made with a deep pointed yoke. In navy blue and black at $16.50. A silk faille poplin skirt made with a yoke effect comes in taupe. $6.75.
